

Anna Paradox is a Writing Coach, offering a workshop called from Memory to Memoir as part of the 2009 What's Art Convention and Street Festival. The workshop will be at 2 pm to 3:30 on October 3rd

The workshop will last one and a half hours. It will cover topics including how to organize a memoir to attract readers, methods of completing the writing, and the current publishing scene.

See <http://annaparadox.com/>

“Listen, if you’re like me, you want to find good new science fiction authors, hang out with other science fiction fans, create some stories, and see the future look more like space opera than post-apocalyptic fiction.

I’m working on that.

I have book reviews here. I’ve written a compact and powerful guide to writing available here. I send out a newsletter twice a month, and archive it here. There will be more, as I create it.

The rest of this page explains my work as a life coach. Mental and success technology have made measurable, demonstrable progress recently. Life coaching works. I want our vision of the future to win. So we need to use every available tool to out-compete the apocalypse meme and the luddite meme. If you want to accelerate your life game, I can help.

Life coaching — a new tool for success

“With Anna’s help, I was able to work out some of the fears and anxieties I was having about a major career change. Anna created a comfortable environment where she helped me to clarify exactly what was making me uneasy about making the change. Since that consultation with her, I have successfully taken the leap, and am very happy in my new position.” S.S., Las Cruces, NM.”

anna@annaparadox.com